---	------------------------------------	--

Objectives:

1. To familiarize UG students with the department, curriculum, academic regulations, and campus facilities.
2. To create awareness about student support services, clubs, internships, and career opportunities.
3. To guide students on discipline, attendance, ethics, and active participation in academic activities.

Program Introduction:

The Departmental Orientation Program welcomed newly admitted UG students and introduced them to the department, academic regulations, campus facilities, and student support services, helping them begin their academic journey with confidence.

Theme of the Event: The orientation focused on helping newly admitted UG students transition smoothly into college life by introducing them to the department, academic expectations, campus facilities, and opportunities for personal and professional growth.

Detailed Report: The Department of Computer Applications organized a Departmental Orientation Program to welcome the newly admitted undergraduate students and help them become familiar with the academic environment, institutional facilities, and departmental practices. The program aimed to provide students with the information and guidance required to begin their academic journey with confidence and clarity.

The program commenced with a welcome address by Ms. Rajeshwari, who introduced the students to the ALIVE platform, the institution's digital learning portal. She explained the various features available on the platform, including the class timetable, online quizzes, Learning Management System (LMS), assignments, study notes, and Acharya Clubs. She demonstrated how students can access course materials, submit assignments, participate in quizzes, and stay updated with academic schedules through the platform. She also encouraged students to make effective use of these digital resources to enhance their learning experience and maintain regular academic engagement.

Following this, Prof. Ramakrishna Reddy, Head of the Department, addressed the gathering and warmly welcomed the students to the Department of Computer Applications. He introduced all the faculty members of the department and briefly highlighted their areas of expertise and responsibilities. He also provided an overview of the department's vision, academic activities, and the importance of maintaining a positive attitude towards learning. He motivated the students to actively participate in classroom activities, co-curricular programs, technical events, and departmental initiatives to achieve both academic and personal growth.

The final session was delivered by Mr. Aditya Uday Diwan, who explained the college rules and regulations in detail. He emphasized the importance of discipline, punctuality, attendance requirements, proper dress code, ethical behavior, and responsible use of campus facilities. He also guided the students on maintaining academic integrity, following institutional policies, and respecting the values of the institution. Students were encouraged to seek guidance from faculty members whenever required and actively participate in departmental and campus activities.

The program concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Mr. Aditya Uday Diwan, who expressed his sincere gratitude to the management, Head of the Department, faculty members, and all the participants for their valuable presence and support in making the orientation program a success.

Outcomes:

1. Students gained an understanding of the department, curriculum, and academic regulations.
2. Students became familiar with the ALIVE platform and its academic features.
3. Students understood the teaching pedagogy, college rules, and academic expectations.

Conclusion and Audience Feedback Summary:

- The Departmental Orientation Program concluded successfully, equipping the newly admitted UG students with essential information about the department, academic processes, and institutional resources. The program helped students begin their academic journey with confidence and a clear understanding of the expectations.
- The students expressed positive feedback and appreciated the informative sessions conducted by the faculty members. They found the orientation useful in understanding the department, the ALIVE platform, and the academic environment.

Feedback Analysis:

A total of 161 students participated in the feedback survey for the Departmental Orientation Program. The analysis shows that the majority of students rated the program as Good, followed by Excellent, while only a small number rated it as Average. This indicates that the orientation program effectively met the expectations of the participants and provided valuable information about the department and academic environment.
